

Bikes Go To Needy In County

Hundreds of unclaimed bicycles and tricycles collected annually by the Sheriff's Department will be provided needy children in foster homes and other institutions under a plan initiated this week by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

The Sheriff holds the goods recovered by officers for six months waiting for their owners to claim them. Most go unclaimed.

Until 1959 State law required the bicycles be auctioned. Often, they were purchased in lots by dealers.

HOWEVER, Supervisor Hahn succeeded in obtaining legislation making it possible for the County to provide the articles for use in worthwhile causes.

"There are plenty of children in foster homes and in such institutions as juvenile hall who can put these to good use," Hahn said.

"By providing them, the County can take a step in providing needy children with good recreation."

HE SUGGESTED broken bicycles and toys could first be sent to Probation Department and County work camps to be repaired and painted, thereby providing vocational training.

"By making bicycles available to youngsters whose families cannot afford them, the children will be encouraged to get paper routes and run errands and other chores, teaching them the value of work and contributing to their sound future," Hahn said.
